Trinity Methodist Church Woking

Message from the Leadership Team (LT)

Last weekend I was lucky to take part in 'Flourish' the Yorkshire North and East Methodist District celebration. The theme was 'Woven Threads: Rediscovering our place together in God's big tapestry'. Revd. Leslie Newton's introduction said: 'It invites us to notice and celebrate how the many strands that make up our lives and churches are interwoven. It is so important that we remind each other that we are never isolated fragments, but part of something vast and vibrant – woven together by grace and love. Sometimes the patterns are only visible in hindsight, sometimes they are still being formed. But always, at the heart of it all, is God the master weaver, always creating something beautiful.' Flourish took place at York University and the sense of unity was powerful in the worship in Central Hall with Zac Carpenter's band and the hall full of people.

The sessions were divided into four threads:

- Rediscovering God's call at the heart of you
- Rediscovering curiosity at the heart of faith
- Rediscovering justice at the heart of God's life
- Rediscovering revolution at the heart of the church

I heard a number of examples of community social justice projects, including 'tea to go', a school uniform project, a hairdressing project and Trey Hall talked about Alcoholics Anonymous and its Christian basis. Thomas Rattigan gave a talk 'The Church wasn't built for the Church: so why are we the only ones using it?' Mission hasn't stopped but maybe we left it locked inside buildings we forgot to use.. He gave examples of where churches were in decline and had been saved by prayerful support and thinking creatively. E.g. In Sheffield they have put a climbing wall inside a church to engage young people and built a church community instead of closing down the church.

It made me consider where are our opportunities for mission at Trinity Methodist? Could we engage more with tenants and offer them prayer? We know the garden is valued and often people are engaged to talk by the garden volunteers and the fig tree figs were valued. We know Messy Church makes a valuable contribution to outreach. We should celebrate our successes and ask what more could we do to increase our mission and look outwards?

Ruth Taylor Church Steward and Circuit Steward. February 2026

The planned signing of the Declaration of Intent between our congregations will not be able to go ahead at our joint service on Sunday. This is because unfortunately two of the Chinese leaders, Edmund Tsui and Simon Che have needed hospital attention this week. The worship and celebration will continue as planned. Please sustain Edmund and Simon in your prayers.
